

Peking 1900: The Boxer Rebellion

Osprey Campaign No. 85 (2001)

Written by Peter Harrington; Battlescene Plates by Alan & Michael Perry

Contents:

Background to the Siege of Peking

Chronology

Opposing Commanders

Opposing Forces

Opposing Plans

The Siege of Peking

Aftermath

The Battlefield Today

Further Reading

Battlescene Plates:

Boxer Attack on Admiral Seymour's Relief Expedition at Lofa (pages 38-39)

Captain Myers's Charge on the Tartar Wall (pages 62-63)

The Defence of the British Legation (pages 70-71)

Comments:

Over a third of this concise history is dedicated to the stages of the siege and eventual relief of Peking. As with other Campaign or Battle narratives in the series, this paperback is chock-full of information (detailed maps, OOBs, etc.) for the wargamer interested in very late 19th or very early 20th century colonial gaming. There is no shortage of choices or ideas. Historical actions can be staged. "What if?" scenarios can be set up, and, for those dedicated to the pursuit, there is sufficient material to engineer a campaign or two. Tabletop actions could range from skirmishers to large scale engagements. One could even combine land and naval operations if so inclined.

-- Chris Hahn

